

Specific Guidelines for the Written Work:

All personal projects must include a structured piece of writing, whatever your overall plan. This piece of writing must follow this structure:

- a title page
- a table of contents
- an introduction, defining the goal of your personal project, describing an explicit focus on chosen area(s) of interaction, and providing an outline of how you intend to achieve the goal
- a description of the process, including production steps, the characteristics, aspects or components of the work
- an analysis of the inspiration, research and influences guiding the work, the findings and decisions made, the resulting product and the process in terms of the goal and its focus on the area(s) of interaction chosen (if you have chosen to write an essay about a specific issue, the essay itself will form the main part of this analysis)
- a conclusion where you will reflect on the impact of your project, and on new perspectives that could be considered
- a bibliography and in-text citations
- appendices, if appropriate.