

Representations of Identity

James Siebert

Why This Project?

I have always had an interest in fingerprints, and how no single person has the same fingerprints. This led me to try and create a project that represents this in a way. I also tried to represent Individuality in the project, because I think that Individuality is directly related to Identity. This led me to pick the specific quotes I did, all of which were examples or statements about Individuality.

Global Context

The Global Context that relates to my project is Identities & Relationships. The whole idea I had in mind when I was researching and finalizing the project was to have the whole project relate to Identity and Individuality, because that was a large theme in the book we had previously read. The main thing I was trying to represent was Identity when I put a fingerprint as the main image.

Approaches To Learning

- Thinking Skills

I used thinking skills in this project when I was deciding what project I would do, what quotes I would include, and what message I would try to convey.

- Research Skills

I used research skills when I was searching for the quotes I put in my project, when I was looking for meanings and definitions of words and phrases in quotes to see if they fit my project theme.

Reflection

Overall, I am happy with how the project ended up, and how the process went. I was able to find a lot of interesting quotes, and I was able to find one in particular that I find very inspiring. There might be some things that I would change about the project if I did it again, like I would use a lot more quotes, but I would keep a lot of the things that went well in the project. I learned a lot about myself and my interests, based on the quotes I pick and the ones I skimmed over in the research process. I am very happy with the project and I will do a similar one if I get the chance.
