Cue Think is an online math program that gives students the opportunity to solve higher level math problems. Students interact with technology to use tools while solving various word problems. Students then record their voices and make a Thinklet, explaining the mathematical thinking that they used in order to solve the problem. Students then view their peer's Thinklet, offering suggestions and feedback. Cue Think is an excellent way for students to solve math problems in a thoughtful, purposeful way. It extends their thinking and allows them to delve deeply into mathematical problem solving. There is a selection of curated problems in a bank that addresses various math standards over grades 2-12. The platform is generally used by instructors to input their own tasks. Standards: various over grades 2-12. Submitted by: Chelsea Green, Howbert Elementary teacher.

Mini-Qs in American History Volume 1: Supplement

These DBQs (Document Based Questions) are supplemental materials to the binders that were previously purchased by the district. These binders include DBQs on the Salem Witch Trials, The Alamo, and the California Gold Rush. Document Based Questions require students to analyze multiple documents (charts, graphs, primary sources) and to come to a conclusion about the topic being presented. Students then have to write a multiple paragraph essay to present their opinion (based on the documents in the DBQ). This process requires higher level thinking and writing out of students and requires them to think critically about events in history. Standards: 1-4 SS/LA. Submitted by: Sara Pittenger, Mann MS Social Studies teacher.

CueThink.com

Cue Think is an online math program that gives students the opportunity to solve higher level math problems. Students interact with technology to use tools while solving various word problems. Students then record their voices and make a Thinklet, explaining the mathematical thinking that they used in order to solve the problem. Students then view their peer's Thinklet, offering suggestions and feedback. Cue Think is an excellent way for students to solve math problems in a thoughtful, purposeful way. It extends their thinking and allows them to delve deeply into mathematical problem solving. There is a selection of curated problems in a bank that addresses various math standards over grades 2-12. The platform is generally used by instructors to input their own tasks. Standards: various over grades 2-12. Submitted by: Chelsea Green, Howbert Elementary teacher.
